

Does having the classes and functions final by default violate the open-closed principle (SOLID)?

Classes

declaration & default constructor